Academic Regalia

The history of academic dress dates to medieval European universities of the fourteenth century. Universities originally used the same clerical robe and hood as the religious orders which established them. When universities achieved identity as educational institutions rather than extensions of religious orders, the design and the symbolism of their regalia began to change. Universities in Europe and areas culturally tied to Europe developed colorful gowns and caps and the hood became a designator of degrees earned instead of a piece of headgear.

Many American institutions have adopted caps and gowns incorporating their official colors. American University's distinctive red, white and blue regalia was introduced in 1988. All undergraduates wear the mortarboard cap with a silver tassel that is traditionally shifted from left to right at the end of the commencement ceremony. Undergraduate students who are projected to graduate with Latin honors and/or University Honors wear gold hoods.

Graduate students wear a blue hood lined in red and white with velvet trim to signify their degree or academic field. All master of arts students wear a white-edged hood, except for those in education (light blue) and international service (peacock blue). Gold velvet trim denotes master of science degrees. Other degrees with specific hood trim colors include the Master of Business Administration (drab), Master of Fine Arts (brown) and Master of Public Administration (also peacock blue). Juris Doctor students wear hoods edged with purple, as do those receiving the Master of Laws, who also wear a tam cap in place of the mortarboard.

American University doctoral degree candidates wear the tam with a silver tassel and carry their degree hoods in the processional. They are then "hooded" by their faculty adviser during the commencement ceremony. Members of the faculty generally wear the regalia to which they are entitled by virtue of the degrees they hold. The regalia may denote their alma mater and the field of study in which the highest degree was earned.

Although some universities use different systems, the academic field is usually identified in accord with a standard code of colors used as part of the decoration of doctor's gowns or tassels on caps as well as hood trim. In addition to fields listed above, these include: economics (copper), journalism (crimson), library science (lemon yellow), music (pink), philosophy (dark blue), science (golden yellow) and theology (scarlet).

Commencement Tradition at American University

American University awarded its first degrees (two doctorates and one master's) at a commencement ceremony held in the university's amphitheater in 1916. AU commencements have grown over the years as the university has become larger and more diverse. More than two thousand students from the arts and sciences, business, communication, international service, law, and public affairs participate in commencement ceremonies each year.

The distinguished list of university honorary degree recipients includes U.S. Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, and William J. Clinton; Nobel Laureates Aung San Suu Kyi, Shimon Peres, and Elie Wiesel; international figures King Hussein, Queen Noor, and Alexander Dubcek; national leaders Andrew Young, Barbara Jordan, Ralph Nader, and Ruth Bader Ginsburg; scholars Stephen J. Gould, John Hope Franklin, Henry Steele Commager, and Alfred Kazin; journalists David Broder, Walter Cronkite, Ted Koppel, and Carl Rowan; and performing artists Marian Anderson and Mstislav Rostropovich, to name a few.

Graduating Students and Degree Candidates

Students who earned degrees in August 2000 and those who are candidates for degrees for December 2000 are listed respectively on the following pages. December 2000 degrees and honors designations are subject to final certification by the university and should not be considered official at the time of this publication.
