Dear Morgan:

I am grateful to you ^{for} all your help yesterday. The two easels I had the porter take up to your rooms. I think they ~~will~~ cost you forty-five cents each. When you come Thursday Miss Parker will give you ninety cents and we shall donate them to your offices. You may need them to put some pictures on. I tried to find you again, but did not succeed. Was twice at your office and then followed you down to Macy's to the rug department where your clerk had said you had gone. I wanted to ask you if I might bring with me the lithograph from Prangs. It seems to be all right now, because they have mailed you one from this office. I got the new lithograph certificate which the Denver University has issued. Dr. Buchtel, you know, is President of that institution. It was he who had Mr. Audsley prepare our certificate and his Denver University certificate is almost a fac-simile of ours, and yet we paid $100. for the design. I call that a low down piece of business. I believe I shall write to the Prangs and tell them that under no consideration do we want more than 25,000. printed until we are certain we shall need more. No use paying for 100,000 lithographs and have four-fifths of them wasted. Better pay a higher rate for the few we do get. I hope they will hurry them up. To make them valid they will have to be signed by Bishop Hurst, Bishop McCabe, and Mr. Andrus. How can that be arranged? I don't much like the space they have left for the putting in of the name of the giver, and it ought to have been stated on the face of the certificate that the giving of One dollar constituted the subscriber a Builder. That ought to have been looked after, but we have all seen too little of the proof of this certificate. Too much was left to Dr. Buchtel.

The girls are hard at work. I shall probably be gone when you come Tuesday, but hope the work will move on gloriously. Don't forget to get your ninety cents from Miss Parker.

Yours sincerely,

W. L. Davidson
